James McCurdy named partner at Lindsay, Hart, Neil + Weigler, LLP

PORTLAND, Ore. — Lindsay, Hart, Neil + Weigler law firm welcomed attorney James McCurdy into its partnership on January 1, 2011. McCurdy, who served with the firm for five years as an associate, practices general civil litigation in Oregon and Washington, and specializes in maritime law, professional liability defense and plaintiff/personal injury cases.

“Lindsay, Hart, Neil + Weigler is one of the few firms that specializes in maritime work,” McCurdy said. “It’s one of the industries Portland was founded upon, and I like our firm’s relationship to our city’s history.”

McCurdy represents tug and barge companies, fish boat operators and others doing business on the Columbia and Willamette rivers. He also serves on the board of the Maritime Commerce Club.

“In his professional liability work, James has achieved positive results through his vigorous advocacy for attorneys in malpractice suits,” said Robert W. Palmer, Lindsay, Hart, Neil + Weigler’s managing partner. “He has also successfully helped clients in plaintiff, personal injury and motor vehicle injury cases.”

McCurdy earned his law degree from the University of Oregon, where he was a member of the law review and a Wayne Morse Fellow. After law school, he was a clerk at the Oregon Court of Appeals for the Honorable Virginia L. Linder. He is a member of the Oregon State Bar, the Washington State Bar and is admitted to practice in the U.S. District Court for the District of Oregon and the Ninth Circuit.
